ST. NICHOLAS.
SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE
FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.
The LONDON ACADEMY, of December 29th, 1877, says:—"In St. NICHOLAS we welcome the best stamp of juvenile literature which is at present published. We have no hesitation in saying that both in the letter-press and in the pictures this American magazine has no rival."
In ST. NICHOLAS for December, the Grand Christmas Number, was begun a charming new Serial Story By Miss Alcott
"Under the Lilacs," illustrated by MARY HALLOCK FOOTE, to continue during the year. This same Christmas number, of which one hundred thousand copies were printed, contained the opening chapters of
A "ROBINSON CRUSOE" STORY

It has caused the best writers in America, of both sexes, to enlist in the task of giving delight and imparting culture to children. In the avalanche of immoral literature that threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome, and really attractive magazine is required for them, and ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher place-form, and commands by this service higher resources in art and letters, than any of its predecessors or competitors."

ONE OF MR. POTTER'S WITNESSES.

[From the New York Times.]

Mr. James E. Anderson, formerly of East Feliciana, La., is wanted. Unless he swears roundly, and unless what he swears to is to be believed, the bottom drops out of the great Louisiana fraud case, and Mr. Potter has builded in vain. Some time ago, the Democrats announced that they had secured positive evidence of fraud in East Feliciana, Mr. James E. Anderson, an election supervisor in that district, having made a clean breast of his offenses in various particulars. Little by little, this affair grew into some importance, until it may be said that Mr. Potter's indictment of Secretary Sherman, as well as the whole Louisiana case, was founded upon certain mysterious allegations of Anderson. Precisely what Anderson claimed to have done, or confessed to have done, never appeared; but, in general terms, it was alleged that he tampered with the election returns from East Feliciana, so that they were thrown out by the Returning Board. In this loose shape the story drifted about the country. Anderson, meanwhile grumbling that he had not been taken care of by the Republicans. In this shape the Times took up the case, referring to Anderson as one of many men whose consciences were quickened by a failure to secure the reward which they had expected for their alleged villainy. Webber, who acted with Anderson, is dead, and his share in the anticipated reward of wrong-doing is said to be due to his widow, who has prosecuted the claim in Washington.

When Mr. Anderson saw in the Times the allusion to his alleged confession and new alliance with the Democrats, he wrote a card which was printed in this paper May 21, 1878. In that document Anderson said: "I did not falsify the East Feliciana returns; I have held no communication with the Democrats; have told no story, made no confession, nor have I any to make." Since that card was printed, Anderson has been freeing his mind to a Herald reporter. He is of the opinion that "this whole thing has been botched," a statement which will undoubtedly pain Mr. Clarkson N. Potter very much. Like the angry gentleman from Florida who turned State's evidence, Mr. Anderson has lost patience with both parties. He thinks that Potter's resolution misrepresented him, [Anderson and he declares that he will not sit still while he is publicly charged with conniving at election frauds. As for the Republicans, who berate his treachery, Anderson cries, "Why did not they remember me when I needed help?" There it is, again. Anderson, like all the rest, claims that he has not been well treated by the Republicans and therefore he will tell everything. But what has he to tell? In his card to the Times he declares that he has made no confession and has none to make. What he does now affirm is that Webber signed a protest attached to the West Feliciana returns. Anderson says that he knew that these protests would be used to throw out the returns of both parishes, but he did not interfere, though once he did make up his mind to denounce the proceeding. And Anderson, at this point, plaintively says, "Dan Webber and I were both weak;" or, as he otherwise puts it, "Webber and I both needed backbone."

Evidently, they needed something else than backbone if Anderson's story is to hang together. He adds: "We wanted written guarantees that we should be cared for if we allowed this crookedness to go unrebuked." Webber being dead, his honest friend charges that he, [Webber] signed one protest. But the virtuous Anderson, being alive and liable to punishment and disgrace, will not admit that he signed a false protest; but he did sign a blank sheet of paper which some wicked persons, to the deponent unknown, subsequently filled up with the desired protest falsely alleging intimidation at the polls in East Feliciana. It is difficult to conceive of a more abused man than Mr. James E. Anderson, who has made no confession and has none to make.

Mr. Anderson's griefs were brought before the Congressional Committee which visited Louisiana after the Presidential election of 1876. One Whitney test fied that Anderson had complained that "the Republican Party had been ungrateful to him"; that he thought he was entitled to a reward of money or office, and that he stated that he desired some influence brought to bear on the Democratic Party to secure him a position or to secure him money." Perhaps that influence was obtained; at any rate, Anderson is now Mr. Clarkson N. Potter's mainstay in the Louisiana case, although since the Potter resolution is before the country, the unhappy Supervisor of East Feliciana thinks that "the whole thing has been botched." The celebrated Major Burke testified before the Louisiana committee that Anderson admitted that he signed the affidavit, or protest of intimidation, but that he was under the influence of liquor at the time "and could prove it." Burke also swore that Anderson agreed to sell out all his information to the Democrats for $4,000. This is Mr. Potter's chief witness in the case which he brings against Secretary Sherman and in the alleged Louisiana frauds.

A number of the English newspapers are complaining bitterly of the high prices and extortions already charged and practiced upon foreigners who have visited Paris to attend the Exposition. Undoubtedly there is cause for this—the Frenchmen are not slow to drive over-shrewd bargains whenever opportunity presents—but we venture to assert that there is not much more disposition to take advantage of strangers in Paris now than there is in London at any time. The British metropolis has lost the reputation it once had for fair dealing, and very deservedly. Its ordinary shopkeepers are about as much inclined to swindle strangers, especially Americans, as Continental shopkeepers are; and their swindle is bigger and infinitely less graceful. The English have as much of a prerogative as other Europeans to overcharge and tell falsehoods in trade, but they have not any more, and they certainly have no reason to condemn their neighbors across the Channel for doing precisely what they do themselves.

There is good reason to suspect that the Greenbeck party in Maine is largely on paper, as they would have their money. The Belfast Journal (Dem.) challenges the Greenbackers in that city to publish a list of the members of their club, and expresses the opinion that they dare not do so least their weakness be shown.—Boston Journal.

A sad scene was observed in a New York Police Court Tuesday night, when the widow of Edward McKenna, killed about a week ago by the falling of a girder on the Elevated Railroad, appeared with her three young children, so weak from want of food that she staggered and almost fell to the floor. She had not eaten for two days, having given the last bits of food in the house to her children, and stated that, though her sad condition had been made known to the company in whose employ her husband was at the time of the accident, they had refused to do anything for her. Her children were sent to a provident institution, but she refused any aid for herself, saying that she "would make her way." This case seems to be another illustration of the truth of the statement that "Corporations have no souls."

The New York Sun was so disgusted with the anti-Tilden, anti-Randall spirit manifested at the Pennsylvania Democratic Convention as to declare: "Between the opposing parties in the State of Pennsylvania, as they now stand, we cannot hesitate which of the two to choose. Nothing could be more deplorable than to see the Democrats succeed under the black and rotten flag they have raised; and if our voice could determine the result, the Republicans should carry the election by a decisive majority." This is a hard blow for the Republicans, but it shows the bitter disappointment of the Tildenites.—Inter-Ocean.

Memorial Day, as is elsewhere reported, drew out the usual concourses of people who annually pay a tribute to our brave, patriotic dead who died in the glorious cause of the Union of Freedom and Humanity. The address delivered in this city by General Thomas W. Hyde, of Bath, breathed an earnest patriotic spirit worthy of the gallant soldier who delivered it, and whose well earned record made his words doubly impressive. The Grand Army did well in inviting General Hyde to deliver the address in memory of their fallen comrades, and those who were unable to hear it from the General's own lips will find a worthy a careful reading. We print the full text on the third page of this issue.

The Columbia (S. C.) Register review the career of some colored men charged with crime, and says: "If they will show penitence and a due regard for public opinion by abstaining from any and every attempt at leadership the past may be forgiven." This is suspicious. It would seem that the colored men are charged with offenses to keep them out of politics. The crime is not serious enough to affect their standing if they will only keep out of politics. This is one feature of Democratic policy.—Inter Ocean.

Mr. John G. Thompson, of Ohio, thinks "the Democrats can afford to be called revolutionists," and adds that the result of the Potter investigation will justify the wisdom of the inquiry. John is a little more frank than many here, and never has been ashamed about unscrupulous measures. He knows the Democrats mean a revolution, and does not see any harm in saying so, just as many here see no harm in advising the Columbus Democrats to drive colored voters away from the polls. John is an unscrupulous rabbit or rat-bite, but is a Democratic Times or Sun.

The South shows signs of restlessness about the fate of its subsidies and claims. It fears this Potter investigation has so delayed the public business that an adjournment will be made before the questions which part cularly interest the South can be acted upon. Behind this is another fear, that if a Congress is likely to be succeeded by a Republican one, at which there will be no hope whatever. The result of these foreboding is a lively attack upon the Northern Democrats by the Southern Democratic editors.

Carter Harrison says 96 Democrats of the House voted for the Potter resolution against their judgment. What wonderful legislators they are. They were, verily, salt clay in the hands of the Potter. The only man who rebelled was poor Carter, and he soon softened under Democratic treatment and became an easily molded vessel—"a Potter's vessel."

Morrison, M. C., has been assigned the duty of investigating the Louisiana frauds. He has had some experience. Under him that little $30,000 was expended for whisky and cigars in the late investigation. Yes, Morrison is fitted for the Democratic trust; he knows how to grease the machine.

The Washington special of the Boston Journal says: "The Potter Investigating Committee is to sit with closed doors, so its members state in conversation, and will send sub-committees to Florida and Louisiana. No counsel are to be admitted, and it is to be a regular Star Chamber tribunal.

THE FREEDMEN'S SAVINGS BANKS.

Changes Known.

NEW YORK, May 30. Washington despatches say that Southern Congressmen would that they were induced to make a thorough investigation into the fact that there was a public sentiment concerning the manifest expression of their constituents, chiefly because of the expressions they had observed in their home newspapers. This leads to the supposition that Wendell Phillips interests has head at work again, and that it has prepared or inspired these manifestations.

Blanche's Movements.

It is now settled that Edward Duncan's that Randall has put on the Potter Committee almost every one of his rivals for the Speaker's chair. It has become privately known that some members of the committee are not pleased that they were put on it, and recent to be on their guard to have no special responsibilities cast upon them individually. Several members say that they will not go on the committee, and that they will not be made scape goats for its failure to get evidence, and will insist that the whole committee shall go to Louisiana and Florida. The Tennessee Democrats are indignant at Key's letter and have agreed to prepare an address to the Tennessee Democracy in reply.

WRECK.

A Passenger Train Wrecked—Several Killed.

SALT LAKE, May 30. Last night four masked men boarded a West bound passenger train at Weber river, Utah Terry, entered the saddle shower car, proceeded to rob the passengers, took a watch and $100 from one, and taken and another watch and $30 from the sleeping-car conductor. Some was pulled the bell and the robbers jumped off. They fired three shots into the sleeper without injury. They struck one passenger with a pistol, cutting the scalp some. It was all done in three minutes. The robbers were out of sight in the darkness before the train stopped. The ground being wet their trail was discovered at daylight this morning and a large party started in pursuit. The Union Pacific Railroad offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the robbers.

William Cullen Bryant.

SUDDEN ILLNESS OF THE POET.

Indisposed

NEW YORK, May 30. The Evening Post furnishes the following bulletin of the illness of Wm. Cullen Bryant: "The poet spoken in Central Park yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of unveiling of the bust of Mazzini presented by several Italians of that part of the city when the least air was stirring and the sun gave the most intense heat. A good deal of that time he was visibly suffering. Himself a clergyman in his assembly from exhaustion by the heat, his head bare uncovered throughout making no complaint. At the conclusion of the open air exercises he was invited by Gen. Jas. H. Wilson to the house to rest after the exertions of the afternoon and to partake of refreshments. Arrived at his destination Gen. Wilson took him up the steps to open the front door for his guest who followed last a slower pace induced by fatigue. On the platform atop Mr. Bryant suddenly seemed to have lost consciousness and in the act of raising one foot to enter the vestibule fell backward on the broad stone strik ng his head with some violence. He was instantly lifted and carried into the house and laid on a sofa, and a despatch sent to Dr. Gray, a family physician. Mr. Bryant was conscious when first seen restlessness and Dr. Gray found he was suffering from synco e with suspension of the action of the brain and laryngitis of the motion of the heart.

Mr. Bryant was very restless last night and does not recognize those around him and will not allow any one to feel his pulse. He developes considerable will power and some physical strength. The Post says it is believed there is no immediate danger of a fatal result.

Continuation of the Illness.

At no o'clock to-day Dr. Gray says Mr. Bryan is suffering from concussion of the brain from thanks he will recover though he is still anxious. Beyond has taken a acute ness since the accident, and is unconscious, but has pulse is better and hopes is a fair chance of improvement.

OHIO.

The Work of Body Snatchers.

CINCINNATI, May 30. Considerable excitement was created here to-day by the accidental discovery of the body of H. J. Scott Harrison, who was buried yesterday; the family vault at Mount Hope in the vicinity rooms of the Ohio Medical College. A body had been stolen at North Bend within the past week, and a son of Mr. Harrison apprehending by a friend was looking in to-day among the Medical College of this city. It was not known this Mr. Harrison's body had been taken until his son recognized it in the room of the Ohio Medical College. The janitor of the College was arrested.

FOREIGN NEWS.

A Congress Considered Certain.

SCOPE OF THE DISCUSSION.

RUSSIA'S AND ENGLAND'S CONCESSIONS.

THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE POWERS.

Subcommittee's Preparations.

LONDON, May 30. The Telegraph's Vienna despatch says that the propositions which Schenvalier took to London, and which appear to have been substantially accepted, were that the Southern boundary of Bulgaria is to be a line from Sulgrad to Philippopolis, Varby, Turkey to retain Batoum on the condition of the demolition of the Danubian fortresses and the substitution of European for Russian control in carrying out the treaty, and the remaining questions to be left to the Congress

A St. Petersburg despatch says the Emperor is evidently make up his mind that there is a good hope of a peaceful solution. He has given orders to prepare a grand theatrical representation to take place on the proclamation of peace.

Representatives of the Powers.

LONDON, May 30. Various specials mention that, Count Schouvalieff, Lord Lyon, Count Andrassy, M. Whidington, Count Bard and Sidyi Pasha, are Representatives of their respective Governments at the Congress.

The Pall Mall Gazette's telegram from Berlin says Bismarck and Count Von Beust will represent Germany; Herr Von Bismarck, remaining Minister to Germany, but permanently employed in Frankfort Post Office, will take notes and make a daily report of the proceedings and M. Thile, formerly Secretary of the French Legation in Berlin and now Minister at Copenhagen, is expected to draft the final report embodying the decisions of the Congress. It is believed in Berlin that Greece will be invited to send a Representative to the Congress.

The Roman Question Prohibited.

It now seems probable that some phase of a French protectorate of Antioch Syria has really been put forward by Gortschakoff. The Greek return to the old Patriarchate and is a hostile step the Oecumenical Ministry in Turkey is at present a super Sultan. Ignatieff Russian Ambassador Extraordinary to Rome is charged by his master the shifting elements of personal ill or caprice. That general there is to be hoped the Porte will consent to accept at our hand and thus introduce the only principle of stability into the Government of which it is capable.

Reconnoissance.

The correspondent of the Edinburg Scotsman says that there is little room to doubt that our Government is determined.

The Approving Minds in the Ottoman Mission.

A despatch dated last night is in the same strain. It expresses the hope that the Congress will not be delayed and says the appointment of Prince Lobanoff in place of Ignatieff, was intended to lessen this danger, and Ignatieff are now being thrown out that the British Government might give some encouraging proofs of its pacific devotion. These hints in a probable explanation of the present apparent hitch in the negotiations as to which hopes the Turks is altogether hopeful.

Sir Joseph Alderson to Continental Capitals.

It is reported that Sanderson is to be Ambassador to St Petersburg of an outbreak of hostile feelings at Constantinople. No such apprehensions are felt in London. It is expected that Russia is merely bargaining for the utmost possible concessions before a final agreement is made.

Assembling of the Congress Definitely Settled.

The extra edition of the Global this evening contains the following. We have good reason to believe that the assembling of Congress is definitely settled. England and Russia have arrived at an understanding relative to the invitation of the Congress of the following powers:

Bulgaria.

Bulgaria is to be divided into two provinces, one north of the Balkans under a Prince and the other south of the Balkans, but not touching the Aegean Sea, with a Christian Governor and a government similar to that of an English colony. The Turk sh troops are to permanently quit Bulgaria.

Representation of Roumania.

England declares, but will not oppose representation of Roumania on commission of Danube and suggested the right to discuss in the Congress international arrangements relative to the Danube.

Russia Promises to Negotiate.

Russia promises to negotiate advance her Asiatic frontier or make indemnity in land or contributions with the choice of English residence.

The Indemnity.

The question of payment is to be discussed by the Congress, which will also recognize Thessaly, Batoum and other Turkish Provinces. Russell is to be ceded to Turkey in Europe ceding the Province of Kutorz in Europe.

The Rumbersome Size of the Conference.

Russia agrees that the Secretary of the Cardinalate and the Nuncio shall remain in status quo. Married will succeed the Congress that Mercer transporting Bulgaria and will discuss the questions of Roman occupation and the passage of troops through Roumania.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Yesterday was Holy Thursday.

Meeting of the Woman's Crusade this evening at City Hall.

See what F. P. Wood says about carriages in another column.

It is expected that the meeting of the Queen City Grange this evening will be of more than ordinary interest.

The May Field will make the first excursion of the season to Portsport next Tuesday. For particulars call on W. F. Dickey.

This evening the Bangor Band will give the first but their concert of the season at Centre Park. The concert will commence at an early hour.

Next Saturday C. L. Marston will be at Mt. Hope to make photographs of lots. Orders left at his rooms to-day will receive prompt attention.

A man by the name of Gates, living in Brewer, was quite badly injured, Wednesday, by being thrown out of a cart on account of the horse starting suddenly.

At twelve o'clock yesterday a salute of thirteen guns was fired from the vacant lot, E. S. Dunsley quarter gunner. They also made a fine display of the flags of all nations. The yacht left this port with the tow last evening.

At the annual meeting of the members of the Orono Savings Bank, Col. Rhen Webster, Samuel Libby, Richard Lord, G. W. Lunt and E. P. Butler were chosen Trustees, who afterward elected Col. Webster Treasurer for the ensuing year.

Addition Gil H. Preble, U. S. N., General Sept. of J. Anderson, and Messrs. G. H. H. Preble, Henry Deering and G. W. Lord, of Portland, and Col. A. W. Wildes, of Skowhegan, arrived at the Exchange last evening on their return from Moosehead Lake where they caught a fine lot of trout. They leave on the Western train this morning.

Several of the musical students of the Seminary gave a free concert at the Essex street school house last evening, at which a large audience was present, and judging from the enthusiasm manifested, their efforts were well appreciated. The room had been handsomely decorated, by the ladies and presented an attractive appearance.

A large number of people were in attendance at the Art exhibition yesterday. The Coburn Cadets visited the rooms at twelve o'clock. To accommodate those who have not yet seen the collection of paintings the exhibition will continue until Saturday next, and all should avail themselves of the opportunity of examining these works of art.

MUSICAL ABILITY ENDORSED. Miss Belle Dardiet has accepted the position of soprano in the choir of the State street church at Portland, and will commence her engagement with that Society next Sabbath. Miss Dardiet is one of our most talented singers and this flattering recognition of her musical abilities, she having been one of several candidates for the position, will be exceedingly gratifying to a very large circle of friends in this city. For the present she will continue her class here where she will remain two half of each week.

The night train out of St. John, due here yesterday morning, was obliged to return to that city on account of a freight train getting off the track on the Western extension and the passengers came along on the day train, arriving here late evening. One of the Pullman car passengers, who had been during the south afternoon, went to sleep in entering the car, expecting to awake in this city the next morning, and was rather disappointed when he awoke, yesterday morning to find that the car stood in just the same place that it did when he got on to the train.

Removal. We are pleased to learn that Mr. C. D. Jamieson, formerly of this city, and son of the late General C. D. Jamieson, has been appointed Civil Engineer of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad. There were twenty applicants for the position besides Mr. J., and his appointment will be very gratifying to his many friends in this city. The road is three hundred miles in length. He will make his headquarters at Memphis, where Mrs. Jamieson will also make up residence. We congratulate him in securing such an excellent position and wish him all success.

Base Ball. Yesterday the Orients played the High school nine and were beaten by a score of 20 to 8, which is rather a bad defeat to star the nation with but it points out the necessity for more thorough and continued practice which the friends of the Orients hope will be entered upon by the nine in order that they may maintain at least as good a record as last year. The Orient nine yesterday was made up as follows: Jackson, c., Carter, p. Fleming, s. s., Bacon, 1st b., Wheatley, 2d b., Haynes, 3d b., Powers, c. f., Ayer, r. f. Mellows, l. f. The High school nine is composed of the following players: Morrison, c., Rice, p., Cutler, s. s., Brown, 1st b., Libby, 2d b., Kingsbiehl, 3d b., Dillingham, c. f., Bartlett, r. f., Bowler, l. f.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT. The friends of Thomas N. Egery Esq., will be regret to learn that he met with a serious accident yesterday morning, the particulars of which are as follows: He visited the Mealley mill at Bangor, where he has been putting in some new machinery, and went down under the mill and was standing near the slab chute, when Mr. Richardson, the mill-wright, asking that he was in a dangerous position, requested of him to send to draw him away; but before he could accomplish his purpose a slab came down the chute with great force and striking Mr. Egery in the face knocked him down in a senseless condition. He remained unconscious for about half an hour, and then having revived sufficiently to be moved, he was taken to his residence on Broad way and a physician called in. As yet they have been unable to ascertain the extent of his injuries. His face is very badly bruised, and being a large man the shock will be very severe even if he has not received internal injuries.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The Ceremonies at Bangor and Brewer—Addresses Delivered and Appropriate Services Held.

Yesterday morning at the city was thought that we were going to have a rainy day for the Memorial services, but with the exception of a few drops of rain in the morning, the weather was charming, and even pleasanter than last year; as the day was quite cool and comfortable. The services were very interesting and of an impressive character. Several flags were displayed about the city, and on Exchange street Mr. F. D. Fuller had the evening of his store very handsomely dressed off. Mr. Webster, who lives in the vicinity of the Water Works, also displayed a very handsome flag.

Marshal.

At a little past eight o'clock yesterday morning some sixteen members of R. H. Beals Post No. 13 under command of G. W. Knight, A. V. C., escorted by the Bangor Band marched to the E. & N. A. depot where it met the Coburn Cadets and fifty guards, in Brewer, where the procession was formed on Main street in the following order:

Bangor Band.
Marshal Chas. H. Crosby.
Aides, Lt. Col. Dewhurst, Capt. Gladden, Capt. Colson.
Coburn Cadets.
Capt. Hamlin.
Detachment Soldiers and Sailors.
Beals Post and Lander Co.

The procession then marched to Oak Hill Cemetery, where with arms reversed and measured tread they entered the gateway, which was very neatly decorated, and was also handsomely decorated. Here the following programme took place:

Prayer by Rev. C. J. Beckwith. music by Band; a beautiful selection by a choir comprising Mrs. Holbrook, Mrs. Libbey, Messrs. Farrington and Holbrook. Comrade Moore then read the Roll of Honor, including all the names, followed by a few very appropriate remarks by Marshal Snow. The Band then played a dirge while the graves of those who had fallen in the late war were decked by the members of the Post. When this ceremony was completed the choir rendered another selection and the exercises closed with the benediction by Rev. H. T. Townsend.

She line was then reformed and marched to the Town Hall, where the ladies had an elegant collation all prepared. The hall contained four long tables and some one hundred and sixty persons were accommodated. After prayer by Rev C. A. Beckwith, all were invited to help themselves and all did ample justice to the viands After dinner three hearty cheers were given for the Bangor people and the Coburn Cadets then marched to the city. The occasion were exceedingly pleasant and the good people of Brewer certainly deserve credit for the manner in which the services were arranged.

At about nine o'clock another detachment Marshal Ally as from R. H. Beals Post No 13, under command of S. A. Hayworth, A. V. C., escort guided by the St. John's Band marched to Mt. Pleasant Cemetery at Black Pt. On entering the Cemetery the Band played a dirge and the graves of the soldiers were strewed with flowers. After a short rest the detachment started on their return and arrived at their hall at about eleven o'clock.

AFTERNOON.

A large crowd congregated on State street at an early hour to see the line formed. At one o'clock the procession formed on Broadway, the right resting on State street, in the following order:

Marshal Chas. H. Crosby.
Aides, Lt. Col. Dewhurst, Capt. Gladden, Capt. Colson.
Bangor Band.
Coburn Cadets, Capt. Hamlin.
Detachment Soldiers and Sailors.
Beals Post and Lander Co.
Citizens.

St. John's Band followed by Hayworth, A. V. C.
Detachment Soldiers and Sailors.
Beals Post and Lander Co.
Citizens.

The procession then marched to Oak Hill Cemetery, where with arms reversed and measured tread they entered the gateway, which was very neatly decorated, and was also handsomely decorated. Here the following programme took place:

Prayer by Rev. C. J. Beckwith. music by Band; a beautiful selection by a choir comprising Mrs. Holbrook, Mrs. Libbey, Messrs. Farrington and Holbrook. When this ceremony was completed the choir rendered another selection and the exercises closed with the benediction by Rev. H. T. Townsend.

We again feel the first of duty enkindled, for duty, not glory, was the stirring impulse that. No glory is to be expected in a fratricidal strife. Their country called to them at war and "war's alarms" they left the plow, the loom, the forge, they left the sweet endearments of home and obeyed the call. The undaunting principle animating our heroes was perhaps no more real and true to them than that moving their opponents, but it had the sanction of the spirit of progress and civilization. There was a wrong in sight and a nation to save through the former may have been fatally realized by most. The first distance of time—action of the years passed in quiet and tranquility, and the present—has enabled us to see that human slavery should have been the keystone of our governmental edifice, should have sustained the apparent prosperity of one-half the country and should have been condoned by the rest Once the old-marching song had a faint tinge of the ludicrous, though the soul of the martyr was marching on in a victory over tyranny and injustice, not then fit reinhanced. Yes! Our dead comrades went to battle to the war cry of the Union and builded better than they knew. The Union was a glorious salvage, but the Union purified from the taint of the infinite sin, is a resurrection.

To-day at many a trysting place both North and South, are honors poured with lavish hand to "our mutual dead," even in Boston, under the shadow of Bunker Hill, entire forgiveness and forgetfulness have been proclaimed, and it is well. But if we in admiration for a gallant foe, and in the desire to harmonize a divided country, can set for a moment the fires of hate long and that there was a fight, history cannot forget that there was a great rebellion against the government of our fathers, that the "lost cause" was born in anger and nursed in injustice, and the other was that of the People who rules the steps of nations. Forget if certain, though greatest, nation builders of the race.

Let us not be unmindful of the great qualities of the American soldier, who we do honor to some of his noblest representatives, whose mortal remains lie buried here. His peerless fame and story is better known and is beginning to be discovered by the world. His self-reliance, his intelligence in the late contest are beginning to be understood. The features of the art of war were seldom paralleled in European campaigns; often as difficult as the Grecian retreat to Charleston Bold, heroically as that, for here was brought out of the depths of the Wilderness, and from the fields of Virginia. Upon the wintry heights made smoke for the frequent impregnable lines of victories. His name in the past was the soldier of the French Republic. A distinguished English military critic has said, "No European Power have experienced the amount of resistance in combat that North and South opposed to each other." While the is flattering to our national pride such a just estimate is also a source of consolation when the moral bent of foreign criticism. It has been hard for minds trained in the school of continental warfare and influenced by its traditions, to consider and in accordance with which modern wars have been conducted, may more than the type of the old which they were modeled. Even on the body politic the superiority of the average soldier must be plainly realized.

Courage and nationality have been the continental standard of the Anglo Saxon race. They are the common property of every quarter of the globe. In every war of any account, but never was a more brilliant battle than in the present struggle.

I may be pardoned in referring to one Major Hasbrouck of no example, as their career cannot wisely under any circumstances, one I may perhaps do it with the more propriety of these men as a whole, illustrated by showing what the highest quality of the country of the highest of duty. Each time their homes were more than half the numbers engaged, and each time they were overpowered by clerical or greater numbers than their own. Each time they were overpowered by clerical or greater numbers than their own. Each time they were overpowered by clerical or greater numbers than their own.
